

Ann Whitehead was taught to embroider by her mother when she was six. She is a Home Science graduate who, as a secondary school teacher, studied and taught design, clothing and textiles for 18 years. During this time she lived at a nursery and developed a deep love of plants, particularly New Zealand's flora. Ann is a foundation member of the North Shore Embroiderers' Guild, a national tutor, historian, lecturer and exhibitor of embroidery. She is currently teaching English and English as a Second Language at an Auckland secondary school.

- A unique collection of designs reflecting the warmth and character of New Zealand
- Full instructions for absolute beginners, including advice on displaying your work

- From quick and easy gifts to sumptuous family heirlooms
- Full-colour illustration of every design

A proportion of the royalties from the sale of this book will go to the Yellow-Eyed Penguin Trust.